We are clearing up past missing information. We found funds from an old PayPal account grossing $1,373.92 as well as a PayPal charge of $107.18 which have now been entered. There was one itemized entry which has been included. These all were for event tickets. Where we were missing individual information, we have e-mailed those involved. Where they have responded, that has been included. We will e-mail them two more times and correct accordingly. After two more times, where we have an address, we will mail them. The failure was in Eventbrite which was not recapturing the information properly. After these three efforts, we believe that we have made a reasonable effort.
